

Just a few weeks away: Sparking the Future of Urban Lighting! ✨

For LUCI's 20th anniversary, elected officials, urbanists, lighting designers, city planners, and engineers will take the digital stage to reflect on the past, comment on the present, envision the future of lighting in their cities. Join us for a series of roundtable discussions that will take place throughout Sparking the Future of Urban Lighting event on 16 - 18 May 2022. Not registered yet? >>

A promotional graphic for the event. It has a dark background with a bokeh light effect. In the top left is the LUCI Association 20 Years logo. The main title 'Sparking the Future of Urban Lighting' is in white. Below it, '16 - 18 May 2022 ONLINE' is in a yellow box. The subtitle 'Perspectives from city elected officials Roundtable discussion' is in yellow. Three circular portraits of speakers are shown: Sylvain Godinot (Deputy Mayor, City of Lyon, FR), Meri Lumela (City Board Deputy Chair, City of Jyväskylä, FI), and Raimond Tamm (Deputy Mayor, City of Tartu, EE). At the bottom left are the hashtags #LUCI20years and #LUCInetwork.

City of Sint Niklaas implements new lighting system

City of Sint-Niklaas (BE) has developed a smart lighting system in two specific pilot sites, Stationsstraat and Sint-Nicolaasplein / Houtbriel. A lighting system that can adapt to the actual needs of users and which considers the diverse functions of the area has been implemented. The lessons learnt and the outcomes of the two pilot sites have been gathered in fact sheets that you can consult in the LUCI Hub lighting library (LUCI Members only) Discover the fact sheets here >>

SEEN IN THE NEWS

Street lighting increases theft from cars, rather than deterring opportunists

Whether lighting is a deterrent to burglars or simply helps them see what they are doing has been a matter of hot debate. Now research suggests that when it comes to reducing theft from cars, it might be best to leave criminals in the dark. Read the article form the Guardian >>
