CITIES IN ACTION

The city of Eindhoven, Netherlands, tests smart public lighting

They look like flying saucers, or a kind of floating pebbles – the two new light fixtures that are hanging as a test in Eindhoven since June 2022. It is the smart lighting for public space that the municipality wants to use in the entire city center. The light color and intensity of the LED lamps in the luminaires can change according to needs and thus increase the atmosphere and safety. Read more >>
